SAUERESSIG Group

Power your Ideas

When a cylinder rotates, it gives shape and color to the material beneath it, it turns an idea into a product. This is just as true for the film with the brand logo as well as for the embossed kitchen roll, for the glossy lettering on a package as well as for the textured wooden floor or the leather interior in the new car.

It's the everyday objects that often require sophistication, inventive spirit and technical know-how – and where these products are created, SAUERESSIG tools are in use.

Individual thoughts become an idea, individual parts become a machine – and in the end it is much more than you expect.

Let SAUERESSIG become part of your everyday life and join our team!

We have an idea for your future.
– With us.

From the smallest beginnings to a global player

At SAUERESSIG we have been developing and producing rollers since 1953. We have a pronounced manufacturing competence and cover the entire spectrum of mechanical processing from standard to sophisticated finishing of web materials.

Starting with the production of rotogravure, flexographic and embossing tools for the packaging and printing industry, we have developed from the production of technical surface structures for the converting industry to a development partner and innovator for the energy and storage market.

“As a global player, we are located in business fields at international locations. For our employees this means: plenty of room to shape their own career.”

Everything is possible

As part of the Matthews International Corporation, headquartered in Pittsburgh, we are part of a strong global network and a unique community - diverse in our talents, united in our commitment.

We rely on international group strength.

SAUERESSIG as an employer

So why choose SAUERESSIG for your career opportunities?

Quite simple, because SAUERESSIG combines the strength of a traditional company with the creative power of an innovation leader. Because your position will entail a lot of responsibility from day one, you will face and make decisions and get involved in challenging projects. Because you will be working in an environment of trust and respect where you can always rely on your colleagues. Because we are passionate about customer service and therefore value your motivation as well. And because, while setting high goals, we still do not forget about the pleasant sides of life.

“We are willing to take on board the ideas of our employees with pleasure. Each individual can contribute their own views, questions and ideas, because this is the only way innovations are created.”

We are looking for you!

Whether your focus is on engineering, IT, production or a completely different area: in our company, there are many different people working to advance our brand and our products to carry us forward as an innovative company.

We rely on people who are curious, committed, agile and ready to take on challenges and discover new paths – and who bring along an enthusiasm for innovation, digitalisation and sustainability. For our international and sympathetic teams, we are constantly looking for new colleagues who want to make a difference and contribute to the success of SAUERESSIG.
